Connell Zoning OK'd

More Estate Development Impractical

Over the protests of estate development resident, the Planning and Zoning Commission approved the annexation and permanent zoning of 193 acres north east of Plano.

The property which is east of and adjacent to FM 2514 (Parker Rd.) is bounded on the east by Cottonwood Creek and on the south by existing estate development and the proposed extension of Parker Rd. Connell Development Company had requested 154.7 acres of SF-2(M), 18.9 acres SF-1E, 12.7 acres retail, and 6.7 acres neighborhood service.

At a stack of protesting letters had been read and six of the spectators in the crowded council room had testified against the proposal, commissioners approved the annexation request but changed the zoning to eliminate all the retail, to extend SF-1E as a continuous boundary on the southern edge of the property, to change the neighborhood service to planned development, and to change the remainder of the land to SF-1(M).

Those opposed to the developer's request told the commissioners that they wanted the whole area in northeast Plano zoned for estate development or large acreage lots.

Bob Collins expressed the views of most of the commissioners when he told the spectators that "it isn't reasonable to expect estate development on the whole east side." Only Vance Maultsby opposed the zoning change to SF-1(M). Commissioners Dr. J.F. A proposal from Fox and Jacobs for the annexation and zoning of 446 acres of land in northwest Plano, north of Spring Creek Parkway and between Alma Dr. and Custer Rd., was tabled until the proposal could be phrased correctly in a motion. Dave Fox told the commissioners that he planned to mix lot and home sizes discriminately on the acreage.

His request was for 355 acres of single family-planned development-mixed use, 18.65 acres of SF-2, 40.47 acres of MF-2, 15.13 acres of retail, and 16.65 acres office. He said he planned to sell $23,000-$35,000 homes in the area.

Fireworks Illegal In Plano

Fire Marshal Threet Warns

By PAM TROBOY
Staff Writer

Despite numerous warnings and reminders of the dangers involved in shooting fireworks, thousands of persons are injured in fireworks-related accidents each year.

Last year more than 6,500 persons were treated in hospital emergency rooms for such accidents, according to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission. Two-thirds of the victims were under 15 years of age and while some of these accidents were caused by banned fireworks that had been illegally sold, the majority were linked to legal fireworks.

In the hopes of preventing such accidents in Plano, Fire Marshal Bill Threet has reminded local residents that it is illegal to "use, discharge, cause to be discharged, ignite, detonate, fire or otherwise set in action any fireworks."

The fine for violating the city ordinance is not less than $25 nor more than $200. If the person using such fireworks is under 14, the parent or guardian of the child is liable for the fine.

Threet reminded citizens that it is also illegal to use fireworks within 5,000 feet of the city limits.

He stressed that fireworks should be used only with extreme caution, and that they are never safe toys for children. The sparkler which is considered by many to be the ideal "safe" firework for the young, burns at very high temperatures and can easily ignite clothing, he added.

"Young children should not be allowed to play with fireworks under any circumstances," he said. "They cannot appreciate the danger involved and cannot act correctly in case of an emergency. If older children are permitted to use fireworks, be sure they use them only under close adult supervision."

"Remember," he said, "for all their patriot associations, fireworks present a very serious safety hazard, particularly for children. Deaths, blindings, amputations, and severe burns have been all too often the result of 4th of July celebrations."

Although it is illegal to sell fireworks within the city limits, several stands have been erected just outside Plano's jurisdiction. This stand, located in Allen, is selling hundreds of fireworks every day in preparation for the Fourth of July celebrations later this week. Fire Marshall Bill Threet has issued a reminder, however, that it is illegal to discharge such fireworks within the city or within 5,000 feet of the city limits. Compliance with the city ordinance should make the holiday much safer, he said. (Staff photo by Mike Newman).

Proctor Fails In Attempt To Eject Photographer

By JACK HARKRIDER
Editor

District Judges Tom Ryan and David Brown might get an air conditioned courtroom; district attorney Tom O'Connell won't get another assistant DA and secretary, and Star-Courier photographer Mike Newman can take all the photographs he wants, even though County Judge W.G. Proctor doesn't like it.

If that sounds like a strange combination, it may be because those were the highlights of the Collin County Commissioners Court meeting Monday.

Judge Brown appeared before the commissioners and got an agreement from them to consider plans and specifications for air conditioning and remodeling the top two floors of the courthouse.

On the other hand, O'Connell was put off again in his quest for additional personnel when commissioners voted 3-2 to wait until budget time to consider his request.

Prior to that, though, Proctor tried to have photographer Newman thrown out of the meeting for taking photos, but received no support from his colleagues in his attempt.

The incident arose while commissioners and Judge Brown were discussing what they wanted in the way of a motion to air condition and remodel the district courtroom.

Proctor interrupted the proceedings to call attention to Newman, who was in the press area of the meeting room taking photos of the individual commissioners.

"We have an ordinance — we have a law that says this commissioners court is not going to be filmed — photographed," Proctor stated. "I want to bring it before this commissioners court at this time to see if you want to continue letting people photograph the commissioners court in these important meetings — where the money of Collin County is being spent. Do you all have an opinion on that," he inquired.

After a nine-second pause in which no one spoke, Proctor then conceded.

"Just go ahead and photograph all you want. It doesn't suit me."

Judge Brown Pleads

Earlier in the meeting, Judge Brown had pleaded with commissioners court to air condition the district courtroom as soon as possible.

"We've been laboring under a severe handicap for years," Judge Brown stated. "In my opinion, it's imperative that this (district) courtroom be air conditioned."

Brown went on to point out that in addition to no air circulating in the courtroom, the acoustics are very bad.

"As you know, I — as you favor a new courthouse at the earliest possible time," he commented. "But even if the voters voted it in today, we would still need this courtroom air conditioned. I implore you to vote on this today. This thing has gone on long enough," he added.

"Mr. Brown," Proctor replied, "I don't want to speak for this (commissioners) court, but this thing's been brought here three or four times, and I have had opinions both ways."

"Now, here you and Judge Ryan come before this court asking three lame ducks to spend $14,500 of the county's money, and the people out there have said they didn't want us running this courthouse any more," he lamented. "I doubt, very much, it would be pleasing to the people out there that don't want us to vote."

Judge Brown countered by pointing out that it doesn't matter whether a person has been voted in or out of office.

"As far as what the people approve or don't approve, you and these commissioners are in office and charged with the responsibility, regardless of what the future is, or regardless of what the vote was. You've got to judge it on the basis of merits," he pointed out.

When Proctor complained that some people opposed a new courthouse, Brown again took him to task, respectfully.

"That you can't get sufficient support doesn't mean you should quit all together and refuse to do anything," he argued. "Don't be hardheaded about this just because you can't accomplish some other things."

Force Possible

Later, when asked by Commissioner Bailey Dickerson if he and Judge Ryan could force the commissioners to air condition the courtroom, Brown replied, "yes, but that's a poor way to do things."

Commissioner Carl Marion indicated he wanted a definite bid on both air conditioning and remodeling the courtroom, and Commissioner Raymond Jenkins said he's been pushing for remodeling all along.

"We've got the building and the funds to do it with, and I think we ought to go ahead and do it," he stated. "Whether I'm a lame duck or not, I'm still sitting in here until January the first and I make these decisions on my own."

Commissioner Odell Rushing agreed with Jenkins, but when specifically asked for his opinion by Proctor, Commissioner Bailey Dickerson replied, "I don't care to express it."

Later, though, Judge Brown made the same request and Dickerson said he would be in favor of complete remodeling of the second and third floors — that air conditioning by itself wasn't enough.

After more discussion, the commissioners unanimously agreed to ask architect Harvey Moore to draw up plans for remodeling, and to present them — along with specifications and cost estimates — for consideration and possible solicitation of bids.

O'Connell Asks Again

District attorney O'Connell was heard next, and after pointing out that money was available to pay for an additional assistant DA and secretary, reiterated his request from last week that he be allowed to hire them.

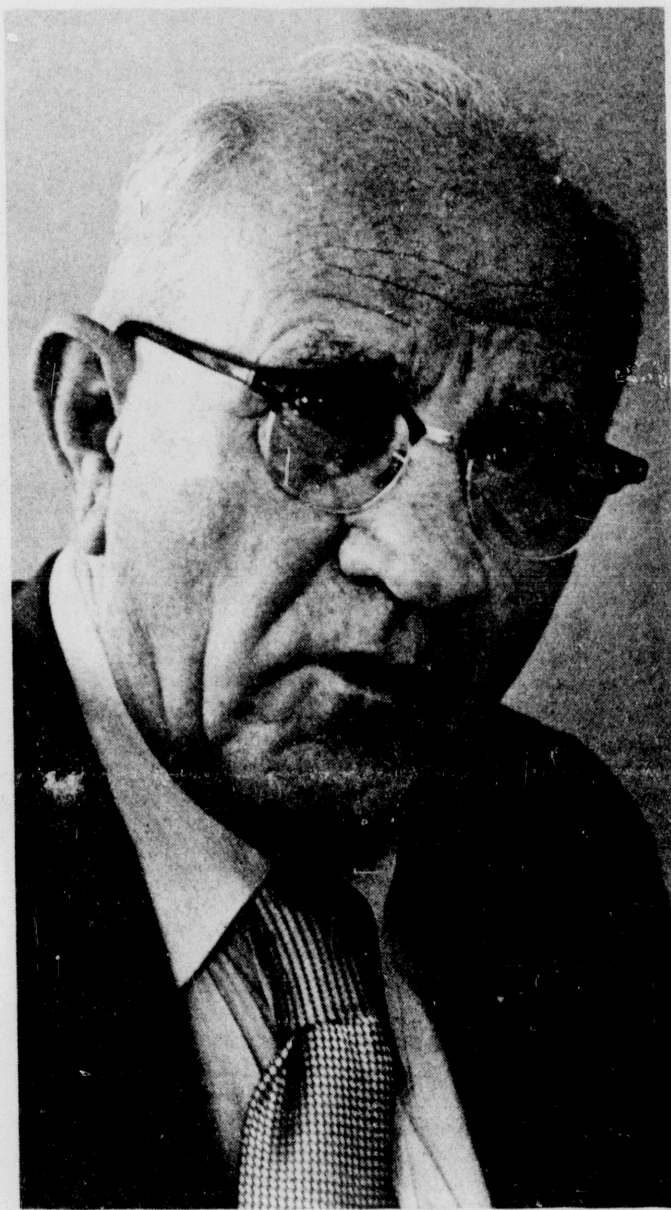

And, as occurred last week, Commissioners Jenkins and Rushing voted in favor of the motion, but Marion, Dickerson and Proctor voted against it.

In untying what at the time was a 2-2 vote, Proctor commented, "I will untie that one right now. I'm going to go along with the proposition that we wait until budget time."

"I hate to do these things," he continued. "It's like a one-man court the way it's been put on me. This is the hottest seat in Texas, and I find it horrible."

In other activity, the commissioners unanimously accepted Mrs. Helen Catlett as the new county extension agent, replacing Mrs. Juanita Murphy, who resigned.

There was little further activity, however, because most of the people scheduled to appear before the commissioners didn't show up.

Self-Knowledge

Attendance Reasons

Going to college because parents want it isn't good enough reason, one authority says.

She's Dorothy Taylor, family life education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Self-knowledge is an important factor in deciding whether to go to college or being work right after high school," the specialist said.

A youth needs to consider his strengths and limitations, what kind of surroundings make him work best, and what he wants to do the next fifty years of his life, she noted.

"The sooner a student decides on a career, the sooner he can begin preparing for it. The first step is doing well in high school courses relating to that career," Miss Taylor said.

Sharing ideas with the family, the school counselor or someone actually working in the chosen career actually working in the chosen career is also helpful, she added.

Another part of career planning is considering the financial aspects - can the student afford training costs, borrow the money, get a scholarship, work part-time - or can he afford to miss college or training for his career?

"A student who rushes into career selection without careful consideration may soon become disillusioned with his choice and blame others for pushing him into a program where he really didn't belong," the specialist said.

Parents can help by discussion career possibilities, opportunities and financial expectations with the student.

If parents are not familiar with a field of study or technical training that has been tentatively selected, they can learn with the youth, she suggested.

"Sharing experiences and enthusiasm makes parents and children more understanding and receptive to changes due to lack of abilities, interests, finances or reward," she explained.

"Whatever the career and training choices, a young person should feel that a vocational selection is his own - based on his own goals and abilities," she concluded.

Non-Stick Finish Needs Extra Care

Non-stick finish on cookware and appliances is one modern kitchen miracle - but it takes more than magic to keep it this way, according to one authority.

She's Lillian Cochran, home management specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"For the two basic types of non-stick coating available - heavy-duty and regular - there are individual and general care techniques," the specialist said.

"Smooth-edged spoons or spatulas may be used on heavy-duty types, but flat knives, forks or rotary beaters can scratch the finish," Miss Cochran said.

"Only rubber, wooden or plastic utensils should be used on the regular finish," she added.

Before using kitchenware with either heavy-duty or regular finish, wash it in sudsy water to remove dust or manufacturing oils.

"Then condition the cooking surface by lightly rubbing it with cooking oil on a paper towel or waxed paper," she said.

Repeat this occasionally to maintain the non-stick finish.

"After every use, the pan or appliance should be cleaned with hot, sudsy water. A plastic pad is best for cleaning the surface to remove any residue that might settle into the porous finish. Residue can damage non-stick properties.

Some Standards Capricious

Collins Says Transportation Dept. Infringes

BY JIM COLLINS
U.S. Representative

Over the past few years, the Department of Transportation has placed over 44 Federal Safety standards on motor vehicles. Two of these, I believe, are most unnecessary and infringe upon the right of both the automobile manufacturers and the automobile owners. One of these two capricious standards has made it mandatory that an adjustable headrest be installed in every automobile off the production lines.

Yet a recent study has indicated that 73 percent of the people leave the headrest in the down position, rendering them absolutely useless! And the overall cost of manufacturing these devices over a five year period comes to a staggering $900 million dollars.

Consumers could conceivably save these unnecessary costs and prevent the rising costs of 1974 automobiles, as disclosed just last week by Chrysler and as predicted by the other major manufacturers.

Probably the most aggravating so-called safety feature mandated by the Transportation Department is the regulation demanding that all cars be equipped with seatbelt interlock systems, which prevent a vehicle from starting unless the seat belts and shoulder straps are fastened.

It has proven to be a complete nuisance: for people accustomed to placing their children or packages on the middle of the seat; for the car attendants in public parking lots; for anyone trying to start a car in an emergency; for the person who has to suffer the effects from an ear-piercing buzzer malfunction; and for policemen who need to jump in a car and take off in chase.

For every hazard it is designed to correct, it creates six more unnecessary problems. The worst problem of all is to think of what happens if a transistor in the car's interlock system wears out... A car could stall or be totally stranded somewhere. This all points to the system's unreliability. Based on past experience with electronic systems, over 240,000 out of the 8.1 million 1974 American made cars can be expected not to start due to a malfunction in the system.

Not only is the automobile driver handcuffed, but also the automobile manufacturer. They have been denied the freedom to design their products in the private sector as they best see fit. They are frustrated over the contradictory bureaucratic requirements that are arbitrary, unnecessary, and constantly changing.

The Department of Transportation fails to realize there must be a balance between technology, cost, and individual freedom in programming safety features in an automobile. The driver of a car should have the option of whether or not he wants to spend almost $200 for head rests, shoulder harnesses, buzzers and interlocks. He may have been the one person who was thrown clear of an accident and escaped death because he was not wearing a restraint. He may be the one who missed being pinned beneath the wheel and crippled because he was knocked clear of the impact of an accident.

Big Brother Government is now telling us how to take care of ourselves in cars. Our individual rights are overlooked when people are required by law to buy or use a certain item. I believe that rights include options, and the seatbelt interlock system should be optional. I wonder what new aggravating device, costly, and unreliable the federal government will force upon us next.

I have introduced a bill to amend the National Traffic and Motor Vehicle Safety Act that will restrain the Secretary of Transportation from requiring motor vehicles to be equipped with upper torso restraints, and with flasher or buzzer devices or a starter interlock system associated with belts or torso restraints.

Toler
Painters
To Meet

The Bluebonnet Chapter of the National Society of Toler and Decorative Painters will hold their quarterly meeting at the Arlington Central Library on July 11 at 1:30 p.m.

The planned program will be based on "Boards, Backgrounds and Finishes" and will be conducted by Marcella League from the Tree House of northeast Ft. Worth.

Election of officers will also be held at this meeting.

of planning the installation program included Mrs. Laura Hilburn, chairman and past president of the Plano B&PW Club, Mrs. Myrtis Newbill, Mrs. Annas Lee Hays, Rita Raper, Clara Helgason and Jo Hurst.

During Mrs. Leazenby's acceptance speech, she thanked the members for their confidence, gave her promise to give the best of her ability, and asked that she be joined by all members.

"Plano B&PW was built on the efforts of a few business women who committed themselves to the federation objectives almost 22 years ago," she told the audience. "We can point with pride to our past achievements, but we must be prepared to meet the challenge of new opportunities," she continued.

Mrs. Leazenby said that the National "Blueprint for Women" focuses on woman's role in today's world, and there is a place for each woman to share her time and talent and for sharing the responsibility of a B&PW member.

Explaining that the program coordinator is already developing plans that will involve each member in giving and sharing time and ability in exciting and challenging programs, she said she knew that each one present would want to be involved in the plans.

Referring to plans on the agenda, Mrs. Leazenby said that the B&PW already has members who are involved in many areas of community activities and that the club would continue to focus on more community involvement through civic participation.

She said that legislation and women in government will be programmed to inform, educate and promote woman's ability to serve their community in helping solve community problems.

She reported that a "get acquainted with B&PW" special program in August will focus on federation objectives and be a challenge for prospective new members who will be guests that evening. She challenged the members to bring one guest each for the 80 members in the club.

"National Business Women's Week" will highlight our objectives as business women," she said. "Our full membership commitment at this time can promote the interest of other working women and will provide the right atmosphere to share the opportunities of B&PW."

One other planned program, the Young Careerist program, will be spotlighted during this week's activities, Mrs. Leazenby told the group.

"We are women of ability and capable of serving well in our club and community," she told members and guests, "but at all times we should be mindful that we are business women and conduct ourselves in that manner."

"Let's live up to our responsibility as women; let's have self confidence and imagination, but above all," she said, "let us possess human understanding and consideration for others and accept the challenge of the new year. Planning and working together we can make this year the best year in the history of the Plano B&PW," she concluded.

Guests from other B&PW Clubs were Mrs. Ellouise Reed of Carrollton, recently elected president of the past presidents District 15 B&PW Club; Mrs. Nan Gill, former District 15 director; Mrs. Verna K. O'Neill; Mrs. Norma Etier and Mrs. Mabel Wells, all of Richardson; Mrs. Bobbie Missni, president of the Richardson B&PW Inc.; Mrs. Eunice Hays, Mrs. Louise Golden, Mrs. Florine Bryant and Mrs. Mary Benson of Garland; Mrs. Lee McDonald, South East Dallas, and Miss Linda Westbrook and Miss Martha Jiffie, Dallas Inc.

Also, Mrs. Jeanne Cullington, past District 15 director, of Oak Cliff; Mrs. Rhonda Morris, District 15 director; Mrs. Mattie Sue Devanly, president Oak Cliff B&PW Club Inc.; Mrs. Teddy Marshall and Mrs. Juanita Powers.

Other guests were Milton Leazenby, Charles Raper, Ray Boyd, Mrs. R.L. Martin, Mrs. Evelyn Harrison and Mrs. Heloise Johnson.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Stains, stains won't go away

By Polly Cramer

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I cannot remove the stains from my steel storm windows. These probably were caused by the weather. I have tried using steel wool but that did not help.

My Pet Peeve is that the Comic section of our paper now uses print so small that I will have to get glasses to be able to read it. — WILMA.

DEAR POLLY — Lorene and those other "busy" women — Why should I make out my check for groceries at home? My purse might be stolen on the way there or I could lose the check and wind up buying someone else's groceries.

Most of the big markets have express lanes for those people in a hurry or only buying a few things. Most important I spend 40 or 50 minutes buying my weekly groceries with a total that adds up to quite a sum (at least a dollar a minute). I think this entitles me to spend a couple of minutes writing out a check at the counter and even taking the time to ask what the date is. Thanks for listening. — DARLENE.

DEAR POLLY — I have a suggestion for Lorene and others who are bugged in the supermarket lines while having to wait for someone to write a check. This whole procedure takes less than five minutes and is an indication of how rushed we have let ourselves become. To make the time pass more quickly smile and start a conversation with the next person in line (comment on her darling baby or ask about her brand of peanut butter) or spend that time turning all purchases so the cashier can quickly and easily read the prices. This is all an attitude. Life is so much more pleasant if we look on the cheery side of things. — JO ANN.

DEAR POLLY — When sewing I clip or pin the pattern instruction sheet on a curtain or wall just behind my sewing machine and at eye level. I merely look up and check on the next step or to find picture assistance while both hands are busy following instructions. I use these aids much more than I would if I had to hunt and then unfold the sheet.

I cut the top from a facial tissue box leaving about a 1/2-inch rim for strength, placed this on a cabinet shelf to hold all the various size of plastic lids for small bowls, cartons, freezer containers, etc. The size of each as they stand on edge helps me find the right one for a certain container. — MARIE A.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The competition is going to be stiffer than you counted on when it comes to satisfying your personal ambitions over the next few days.

TAURUS (April 20-May) Don't try to impose your philosophy or ideas on subordinates. There's no market for what you're selling.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Do the best you can to keep current on obligations that are now due. At least acknowledge them with token payments, if possible.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone is going to be very angry with you if you break your word to her regarding something you promised to do.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't put responsibilities off, thinking you'll get around to them later. You won't — they'll just pile up.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) For the next few days avoid any type of risky or speculative venture. Someone else could profit, but not you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're subject at this time to be overly responsive to pressures from others. Think for yourself. Run your own show.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't lock yourself into a corner by sticking to outmoded plans and ideas that aren't feasible for your present needs.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The next few days will require prudent management in all your material dealings. If buying, selling or trading, be as sharp as possible.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You will not be free to move about as independently as you'd like 'til after Friday, when others lessen their demands on your time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Situations over which you'll have little control will have the upper hand for a few days. Be patient. Wait things out.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll be better off in the long run if you lay aside for the present your pursuit of more pleasurable interests and get down to business.

Gordie Howe:

Success Hasn't Spoiled

Texas Hockey Player

By GARY L. TAYLOR
HOUSTON UPI—As a boy in the fields of Canada, Gordie Howe stared at the swaying wheat and saw ice hockey players moving to and fro. But that wasn't all. "I would sit down with my oldest sister," Howe recalls, "and write my signature about three different ways and ask her which one was the nicest because when I became rich and famous I wanted to be able to write like it. It's funny, when you look back the pattern was really developing."

Rightwinger Howe, the 25-year veteran of the National Hockey League who is now the World Hockey Association's No. 1 attraction, knew at an early age he would handle a puck better than most. The financial stardom of soon-to-be Texas banker Gordie Howe came later.

"I never would have thought it," the almost shy, good natured Howe said, his easily turned on smile showing what the years of rough and tumble hockey have done to his teeth.

But it's true what they say about financier Howe. He may retire from the market place sooner than he does from the rink.

"Colleen and I would sit down and go over quite a few things in the late hours," said Howe, now 47 and planning to play at least one more season. "Our aims were that — say at 50 years of age — we would have enough going for us that we wouldn't have to work on a regular basis and we could get out and enjoy fishing or something."

"At that time about 10 years ago we really gambled. We went out to our good friend the banker — we got $100,000 — and put it into cattle. And from that point on our estate started to grow considerably. Actually the two years I had out of hockey it grew about two and a half times."

The Houston Aeros of the WHA lured Howe back to the rink last summer and signed his two sons, Mark and Marty. Rancher Gordie now counts 350 head of Hereford cattle as his. He also has an interest in a big silage preservative company. He owns several apartment complexes. And he proudly says he has shares in a bank.

If the charter is approved on Houston's Pin Oaks Bank, he'll soon own one.

"It's really funny that I come to Texas and get in a bank," he said. "Billy Welu used to say they talk big down there. They talk about buying and selling, getting rous together and buying hotels and buying banks and laughter it's the truth."

After a short tour in the minor leagues, Howe joined the Red Wings for 25 triumphant years. But although he quickly became Detroit's wheel, hockey was such that the Great Pocketbook in the Sky did not shine on him for most of those years.

"Nobody made that much money. I would have liked to have gotten into it like the boys," he said. "Now Marty and Mark are involved with apartment dwellings, which is unbelievable. And they are in a bank, and they are not old enough. . . well, not even old enough to have point-two beer."

Papa Howe, whose biggest weakness is expensive fishing trips, said "during the first 10 years of my marriage I had to have a summer job to get by."

He said five years ago, or after about 23 years with the Red Wings, that he got on top of things financially. His first contract with Detroit in 1946 was for $2,500. Last summer he came out of two year retirement to play for the Aeros for about $997,500 more.

It's doubtful that the monied H. Ross Perots or H.L. Hunts will respect Howe the way his hockey fraternity still does. Recently, when the Aeros signed a minor leaguer from Canada, the youngster reflected on his new team.

"Every young hockey player in Canada looks up to Gordie Howe as his hero," Glenn Irwin said. "How that he has announced he'll be playing again next season, it'll be quite an honor being in the same uniform and sitting along 'Mr. Hockey.'"

But if Howe is taking a chance at staying in pro sports too long, it probably is because he does not want to hang around board rooms. Colorful sports shirts look more comfortable on Gordie's huge chest and upper arms than a pin stripe unit.

One of his favorite jobs is the promotional work he does for a motor company which has a pro sports panel.

"It's delightful and the reason I like it is that I can sit there and listen to the stories of Dave DeBusschere or Al Kaline or Byron Nelson, or at one time Arnold Palmer," Howe said. "I sit there in amazement listening to them."

Now far from the little boy who gazed into the Canadian wheatfields, Howe sits in his office suite not far from his plus Houston home. He looks at his business associate and wife and then gazes into space. Then his eyes focus on a thought.

"I don't know how to put it except to say that it looks like we have a real good chance to realize what we thought of and dreamed of years ago," he said.

Dome Delayed

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The 1975 Super Bowl, the New Year's Eve Sugar Bowl and the inaugural season of the New Orleans Jazz basketball team are all being forced from the $163 million Louisiana Superdome because of construction delays.

N.C. "Buster" Curtis, of the stadium's architectural firm, said Monday a series of labor disputes had pushed the Superdome's projected completion date back to next March.

"It won't be possible to put our best foot forward on Jan. 12," Curtis said, referring to the Super Bowl. "I hate to say it, but that's just the plain, honest truth."

While Curtis predicted a March completion date, other construction officials said an April opening would be more realistic.

Ben Levy, Superdome executive director, said he was "not satisfied" with the revised dates and would organize a meeting with the general contractors to see if work could be stepped up.

The stadium had originally been scheduled for completion this summer, but

Over American Legion

Colts Sweep Twin Bill

The Texas Colts baseball team won a doubleheader from the Junior American Legion Sunday at Schell Park. The Colts edged the American Legion 3-2 in the first game in extra innings, and took a 10-0 win the second game.

In the first game, the Colts won in the bottom of the eighth inning. Dale Efaw squeeze bunted Randy Cox in for the score. Cox got on second base on a deep left-field hit and was sacrificed to third base by Tommy Mitchell.

The American Legion team was playing catch-up baseball. The Colts had the Post 321 sponsored team down 2-0 going into the top of the fourth inning.

But a double by David Terry scored team mate Tim Kiedinger and put the score at 2-1. Then later in the game, Terry doubled again to score Douglas. The hit put the game in extra innings. In the opener, the Colts had eight hits while the American Legion got four hits. Randy Cox was the winning pitcher and Doug Fleming was the losing pitcher.

In the second game, the Colts got 13 hits in the opening innings and took a 10-0 game from the American Legion. The game was called on a ten-run rule.

Colt hits were led by Mike Woehl, hitting four for four with a triple and two runs. Randy Cox, and Tommy Mitchell were two for two and Johnny Aparicio went three for three.

The American Legion's lobe hit was a single by Keidinger. Winning pitcher was David Melson. Curtis Trimble was the losing pitcher.

Daring Mitchell

Tommy Mitchell displays the daring style that has earned him a top ranking on the Texas Colts baseball team. Mitchell is Coach Phil Ortiz's favorite batter to use in a squeeze bunt situation, and also for pinch running because of his basestealing. In games this weekend, the Colts beat the Junior American Legion baseball team in a doubleheader, 3-2 in the opener and 10-0 in the finale. (Staff photo by Mike Newman.)
